

That Workshop in the Sky

Much in the spirit of Galootdom, we'll undertake an effort to preserve the online presence of fellow Galoots who have passed on to whatever lies on the other side. The links below lead to a copy of the original web sites. They will open in new window. Please keep in mind that these are historical records. Things continue to evolve on the net that sometimes necessitate changes on our sites. These of course are no longer being maintained, only preserved in the such state as they were found when our friends passed on. For those galoots who were members of the OldTools mailing list, the (Bio) will take you that link... anyone close enough to provide a brief bio on others, please pass that along to us.
